

SEIZE OPPORTUNITIES IN THE COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY FOODSERVICE CHANNEL

Foodservice in colleges/universities is poised for evolution amid enrollment declines, warranting a new look at the segment. It's known that older students represent the bulk of this drop, but it becomes important to understand more deeply how this trend is impacting foodservice in these institutions.

- Beyond age, how else is the student population changing? How do these shifts differ between two- and four-year institutions?
- To what degree are college/university foodservice programs challenged by declining revenues? How are budgets and purchasing practices being impacted?

For suppliers, this foodservice segment offers many attractive features. First, the total College and University (C/U) foodservice market is estimated to have reached $9.4 billion in food, beverage and non-food purchases in 2021. Secondly, this segment has experienced strong growth over the past decade, largely surpassing industry averages and growth for the segment is expected to outpace the industry. And finally, "consumers" in C/U have a strong preference for brand names.

Foodservice IP (FSIP) is proud to announce the launch of its 2022 study, Seize Opportunities in the College and University Foodservice Channel, now open for sponsorship.

STUDY OBJECTIVES

- Bring to light foodservice growth trends and drivers in U.S. colleges and universities
- Market segmentation and differentiation between two- and four-year institutions
- Deliver dynamics and trends related to different service areas/systems
- Uncover consumer attitudes toward and behavior within C/U foodservice and retail food/beverages
- Identify critical issues faced by C/U institutions and how these impact foodservice
- Forecast how the C/U foodservice market will evolve through 2025
- Identify key growth opportunities, anticipated challenges/hurdles and critical success factors for manufacturers who participate in the C/U foodservice market

APPROACH

- Engagement Initiation—meet privately with each sponsor to discuss objectives and proprietary research needs. FSIP will obtain a "wish list" of questions to incorporate into the survey instruments. Each sponsor will be able to sign off on the final questionnaire with their custom, confidential questions.
- Existing Data Review—Exhaustive review of available information to provide deep contextual perspectives on industry dynamics
- Consumer Research—750 heavy to moderate users of C/U foodservice venues will be interviewed. Includes students, faculty, employees and visitors.
- College/University Operator Research—FSIP will quantify attitudes and behavior with an in-depth survey of 250 C/U foodservice operators.
- Analysis and Report Delivery—Report content will include common-interest and proprietary sections
